The most important recent development in the area of corporate governance in Japan is the enactment of the Financial Instruments and Exchange Law of Japan, which came to effect on September 30, 2007. Under J-SOX, a listed company is required to submit reports in which its management assesses the effectiveness of the company's internal controls over financial reporting.

In view of the developments in Japan, we have developed a 2-day practical and interactive workshop on how to meet and manage the requirements of J-SOX. In the essence, the workshop entails:

- Case studies discussion amongst participant with insightful input from an experienced trainer.
- Practical suggestions on how to successfully meet and implement the requirements of J-SOX and how to avoid the common pitfalls.
- Comprehensive course handouts on the elements and requirements of J-SOX.
